SECOND HIGHEST OFFICIAL

Dr. Will Lail Vice-President of Colorado Hoosier Society.

Dr. Will Lail, formerly of this county, has been elected vice-president of the Hoosier society of Colorado. The meeting was held and the election of new officers for the year took place at Denver recently. Dr.
Lail left here many years ago on account of his health and has recovered completely. He is deputy sheriff in the county in which he lives. Dr.
Lail was the son of the late Henry Lail of Washington township, and Mrs. Lail was the daughter of the late Augustus Gladdon of the same township.

GOES ACROSS WHEN NINE HAD DROWNED

Mrs. R. F. Scudder Anxious to Hear
From Hamilton Relatives and Ventured Into Boat.

DRIFTWOOD BURNED FOR FIRES

Although nine people were drowned the day Mrs. R. F. Scudder of this city crossed the river in a boat to get into Hamilton, Ohio, she was so anxious to hear from her two brothers and sisters there that she gave no thought to the danger. All of her relatives were saved, but they all suffered heavy losses. One of Mrs. Scudder's brothers has nothing left but the house in which he lived and it is very badly damaged. Mrs.
Scudder arrived home last night.
She says that it is impossible to conceive the havoc that has been wrought unless one has seen it. The pictures of the damage fall far short of telling what actually happened.
For two blocks and a half, Mrs.
Scudder says, on a paved street running to the river, the paving and road bed was washed down so that the sewer tile is visible. All along that street the houses were washed away. All of the public utilities are at a standstill and people keep warm
by burning driftwood that floats down the river.

FIRST PLAY TO BE GIVEN SINCE 1908

Comedy "Mr. Bob" to be Presented Tonight and Tomorrow Night is First Since "College Widow."

CAST CAREFULLY CHOSEN

The comedy entitled "Mr. Bob"
which will be given tonight and tomorrow night promises to be one of the best plays ever given by the high school. This is the first play given by the high school since 1908. A large stage has been built for this occasion and special scenery has been secured. The cast which has been carefully chosen by Miss Robinette has made rapid progress under her supervision. The play consists of two long acts and will last about an hour and three quarters. The high school orchestra
under the directorship of Frank Forry, will furnish the music for the evening. The curtain rises at 8:15 sharp and the doors will not be open until 7:45 o'clock.

SUBSIDY WINS IN FRANKLIN

Overwhelming Majority for I. & C.
Special Tax Despite Heavy Losses from Flood.

VOTE CAST THERE YESTERDAY

Sum to be Raised Larger Than That Voted Here, But Majority is Greater.

Regardless of the heavy loss of life and great property damage amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars, three townships in Franklin county yesterday voted a tax to pay for right-of-way for the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction company's extension to Cincinnati that had not been donated.

The majority was overwhelming,
greater in fact than that given the subsidy here, even though the tax was much larger. Those favoring the subsidy number 1,026 and those opposed were only 146.

This insures the extension by the "Scenic Valley" route, since free
right-of-way has now been arranged for the most of the distance to Harrison, Ohio. Charles L. Henry, president of the I. & C., said at the very beginning that the extension would not be made over a route where free
right-of-way could not be obtained.

In Rushville, Noble and Richland townships, the majority given the subsidy was not near so large as that in Franklin county, and there were no obstacles to overcome. The vote here was 1,325 in favor of the tax and 356 against it. In addition to all this the assessment on each property owner was much larger in Franklin county, because the population is smaller and the sum to be raised was much greater. The amount needed in Franklin county to buy right-of-way not given to the company amounted to about $38,000.
Here the sum was about $14,000.

The boosters for the subsidy election in Franklin county have been very much worried since the terrible disaster in the Whitewater valley caused by the high water. The fear was expressed that the voters would decide that they had enough additional expense because of their individual losses and the loss to the county as a whole. But even this did not figure in the election. Apparently, if there had been no flood, it would have been unanimous.

When it is considered that five of the largest bridges in Franklin county were washed clear away and that many highways will have to be rebuilt by the county, the overwhelming majority was a revelation.
The only explanation for the large vote favoring the tax seems to be that the people of the three townships realized that they could more quickly recover the losses they had sustained by improving their facilities to handle their products.

The following vote was cast:
Brookville township, precinct 1, 220
for and 12 against; precinct 2, 157
for and 32 against; precinct 3, 111
for and 42 against; precinct 4, 685
for and 27 against; precinct 5, 197
for and 10 against; Metamora township, 137 for and 10 against; Posey township, precinct 1, 94 for and 6 against; precinct 2, 44 for and 7 against.

COUNCILS MAY BORROW MONEY

Counties Need Not Wait If They Have No Funds to Begin Vocational Training.

VIEWS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL

Application for County Agent Can't Be Made Until After Appropriation is Made.

Attorney-General Honan, in an opinion given to Charles A. Greathouse, State superintendent of public instruction, says a county council, seeking to make an appropriation for the establishment of vocational schools under the recently passed vocational education act and having no money in the treasury to appropriate, may borrow money if necessary to begin the new school system.

Mr. Honan's opinion is in reply to several queries on various sections of the new law.

"The county council is authorized to make appropriations at special meetings, if an emergency should arise for such appropriation,"
the state official says. "If no money is available in the county treasury
such appropriations can only be provided for by borrowing money. It is not the duty of the county auditor to decide these matters, but the duty of the county council. Upon the filing of the petition and deposit required by Section 12 (of the vocational law) it will be the duty of the auditor to call the county council
together in special session to consider the same."

The application (under the law's provisions) to Purdue university for the appointment of a county agent
can not be made until the council
makes an appropriation for the establishment of the vocational schools in the county, Mr. Honan holds. The state superintendent had asked whether the preliminaries for a county agent, including the application to Purdue, could be made legally before the law goes into effect by the governor's proclamation.

A section of the act expressly puts all sections of the law in effect from and after its publication except the State aid provisions, according to Mr. Honan.

TO START FREIGHT SERVICE

I. & C. Will Resume Passenger Traffic by Friday.

The Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction company will start its freight service again tomorrow. It will be the first time freight has been carried on the interurban line since the flood. The officials announce regular service of limited and local cars will be started Saturday.
The railroads have about resumed normal traffic with the exception of the C. H. & D. Two trains daily are operated each way but they can not be run on time because track is not yet in first class shape.

VARNER TRIAL SET.

The trial of Albert Varner of Charlottesville, charged with assault and battery with attempt to murder Russell Hays of Knightstown, has been set for trial in the Henry circuit court at Newcastle, April 24.
Varner shot Hays in the shoulder
after an altercation on the streets of Knightstown three weeks ago.
Hays has recovered so that he is able to be out.

SUIT OVER SPAN OF MULES

Riley McCarty and Jacob Myer Demand $325 Damages.

Riley McCarty and Jacob Myer
have filed suit in the circuit court against Joseph Hardin and Joseph
B. Hardin, for damages demanding $325. The plaintiffs allege that they purchased a span of mules from the defendants, paying $276. The mules according to the complaint were misrepresented and they now demand their money back and the cost of feeding the mules for thirty-two days. They were purchased March 9, 1912. The total amount asked is $325.

TENTH STREET IS TO BE IMPROVED

No Remonstrators Appear Before
Council and Preliminary Resolution is Conferred.

WILL LET CONTRACT MAY 6

The city council met in special session last night to hear remon-strators on the proposed improvement of West Tenth street. The improvement went through without a hitch and the preliminary resolution was conferred without modification.
Bids will be received May 6. The street is to be improved from Sexton street west to Spencer street with cement sidewalks, curb and gutter and a stone or gravel roadway. That section of the street which is to be improved is about four squares long and at present resembles an alley
more than a street. It is the intentions of the council to push the work to completion as rapidly as possible as soon as the contract is left. It is understood that all the property owners favored the improvement.

The only other thing done at the meeting last night was the presenting of a remonstrance against the proposed improvement of cement
gutters in Harrison street from Second street to Fifth street. The remonstrance was referred to the street committee. It is understood that the remonstrators would favor the improvement if the city would straighten the street. North of the C. H. & D., tracks the street is about four feet out of line with that part south of the railroad and it is not very probable that the city will go to the expense of straightening it.

CAMPAIGN ON FOR $15,000

Spiceland is Making an Effort To Rebuild Old Academy.

A campaign is being carried on in Spiceland to raise fifteen thousand dollars to rebuild the Spiceland academy. $5000 has already been raised and it is expected that no difficulty will be experienced in obtaining the remaining ten thousand.
Ten men subscribed the sum that has already been raised. Pres. Kelly of Earlham college made a plea in the Spiceland Friends church one day recently for the preservation of the academy. He pointed out the value of the school and appealed for the life of secondary schools.

The Knights of Pythias dance which was to have been given this

FLOOD TEACHES MANY LESSONS

Solid Concrete Bridges, Instead of Washing Out, Go Down in High Water.

BREAK IN MIDDLE OF SPAN

Many Bridges Sink at Both Ends
Making Travel Over it Dangerous.

As the repair work on the bridges and culverts of the county begin to get under way the trustees and road supervisors and others in charge of the work are impressed with three distinct mistakes that have been made in the building of bridges.

The first of these errors, as some of the officials see it, is the question of the bridges made entirely of concrete construction. Several bridges of this kind have not washed away but have gone down. No matter how they are reinforced, it is said, these bridges have not withstood the force of the flood. It seems that they break in the middle of the span and then simply collapse, crumbling and breaking in several parts. After a bridge is down in this manner it is said that it is as big a job to get the damaged bridge out of the way as it is to build a new bridge.

The second error in bridge construction is noticed in the way a large number of the structures have sunk at one or both ends. This permits the bridge to drop and stand out of line and make travel over it difficult and dangerous. This kind of a damage is cause, it is said, because the foundation of the bridge was not placed deep enough in the ground at the time of construction.

A large number of bridges over the county have been damaged in this manner. Some places it is said quick sand is encountered in digging for the foundation. Enough effort is generally not made in such cases and the concrete foundation material is placed in the excavation in a haphazard way with results which are now seen all over the country.

A third error seen is in the fact that many of the road grades are built too high. It is impossible, it is said, to place a road grade high enough to keep a flood of the size of our last one from getting over the top of it. If the water is thus held in by the high grades it will sweep
the bridges out and simply fill up the basin above the grade until it runs over the top of it then is when the damage is done. If the road grades were built lower it is said the water would get over the grades often but there would be far less damage when such a thing did occur.

EIGHTH YEAR EXAMINATIONS

Will be Held in Nine Townships Saturday, April 18.

County educational day will be held in June this year, but the date has not been fixed, according to County Superintendent George. He announced eighth year examination would be held Saturday, April 19, in the following townships: Center, Noble at New Salem, Richland at Richland, Anderson at Milroy, Orange at Moscow, Jackson at Od-
gen school, Rushville at Circleville, Ripley at Carthage, Union at Gings.
The eighth year examinations in the other three townships were the third Saturday in March.

RAILROAD TO BE REBUILT

Section Boss Ordered to Repair Whitewater Valley Line.

John Oglesby, section boss, has received instructions from headquarters to proceed at once to repair the railroad here says the Laurel Review. He put on every available man to push work of reconstruction as rapidly as possible. We are glad to hear this cheering news as some of our pessimistic brothers here predicted that the road would never be rebuilt. We however, felt confident that it would as it is and has been a well paying road. The damage to the road between here and Connersville is not so great so we are hoping it will not be long until a train will be able to run between here and Connersville.

KNIGHTSTOWN TO TAKE OPTION VOTE

Petitions For Elections Are Filed by Two Townships in Henry County.

BOTH ARE SALOONLESS NOW

Encouraged by the result of the Newcastle election last Tuesday, the wets of Fall Creek township, including Middletown, and the wets of Wayne township, including Knightstown field petitions for local option elections in those places, says the Newcastle Courier.

The Wayne township petition is signed by 184 voters twenty-nine more than are needed. The law reads a petition calling for a local option election shall be signed by 20 per cent of the total vote cast at the last state election for secretary of state. In Wayne township 729 votes were cast for that office.

On the Wayne township petition the name of Vernon Wink, the Knightstown druggist who is awaiting trial on seven charges of violations of the liquor laws, appear. He was convicted by a circuit court jury two weeks ago and was fined $50.

Fall Creek township, which includes Middletown, at present has no saloons and has had none for four years. The same is true of Wayne township and Knightstown.

OXYGEN HELMETS FOR NAVY.

Department Orders Devices to Safeguard Men Near Oil Tanks.

The navy department has ordered a small number of oxygen helmets to be supplied to the submarines and to all of the battleships which use crude oil as fuel. In the case of the submarines it is believed the helmet may be efficacious when poison gases are accidentally generated within the hulls, as happened to one of the submarines two years ago with disastrous results.

The great oil tanks in the battleships have been found to contain deadly oil fumes after they have been emptied of their contents, and it is intended that the helmets shall serve as protection to the mechanics who are obliged to enter these tanks and compartments. Their use also is contemplated in the rescue of firemen or boiler tenders overcome by bursting steam pipes.

Spartanburg, S. C., April 9.—Ty Cobb, the famous baseball player, and Rutledge Osborne, second baseman of the Wofford college team of this city, settled a difference with their fists in the room of a hotel at Greenville. Osborne, a little fellow, received the worst of it, but declared that the men held him on the floor while Cobb gave him a beating.

NOT LIKELY TO BE THE ONLY OCCASION

President Probably Will Deliver All Messages Personally.

Washington, April 9.—The president of the United States, for the first time in 112 years, addressed congress on matters of national policy.

The custom established by Washington, continued by John Adams and neglected by Thomas Jefferson and all his successors down to the present, has thus been revived.

Simply and quietly Woodrow Wilson came to the house of representatives, read his tariff message to the two branches of congress sitting in joint session, listened to their plaudits for a few seconds and, bowing gravely, left the hall and hastened back to the White House.

The proposed innovation which had had all political Washington by the ears, proved to be no shock at all and folks in the national capital who had been holding their breath for two days are wondering now what all the excitement was about.

What is more, if President Wilson's somewhat ambiguous preliminary statement which he uttered just before he launched into the 1,200-word message itself is interpreted correctly, the innovation has come to stay, at least for four years. In introducing his message the president said: "I am very glad indeed to have this opportunity of addressing the two houses directly and thereby verifying for myself the impression that the president of the United States is a person and not a mere department of the government hailing congress from some isolated island of jealous authority, sending messages instead of speaking with his own natural voice; in short, that he is a human being trying to co-operate with other human beings in a common service. Hereafter, after enjoying this pleasure and privilege, I shall feel absolutely normal in all our dealings with one another."

Mrs. Pankhurst's Condition.

London, April 9.—Notwithstanding reports of her collapse the doctors find that Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, who is in Holloway jail, is showing only slight effects of her hunger strike. She is apparently able to endure abstinence from food for several days longer.

DREAD DISEASE FOLLOWS FLOOD

Refugees On the Ohio Face Serious Trouble.

THE AUTHORITIES ARE ALERT

Strict Quarantine and Enforced Vaccination Resorted to as Measures Necessary to Prevent the Spread of Smallpox, Which Already Has Broken Out in Some of the More Destitute Refugee Camps.

Evansville, Ind., April 9.—Slowly but surely the flood is receding and Evansville is emerging from its bath in the backwaters of the Ohio. The weather forecaster estimates that within a week the Ohio will have gone below the forty-foot mark.

The question confronting the authorities now is that of preventing disease that will follow in the wake of the flood, the result of bad sanitary conditions caused by backing water into sewers, forcing the refuse into city streets. The health board has been in daily conference for a week, seeking means of preventing an outbreak of smallpox among refugees, such as occurred after the January freshet.

The disease problem will be taken in hand by government officials. The Kentucky, the government steamer used in the Ohio river relief work, will be brought back to Evansville when work is completed. It carries a naval surgeon and a big supply of vaccine needles. Disinfectants will be taken in large quantities and the boat will patrol the Indiana stretch of water in a crusade against disease. Cases of smallpox exist in many cities on the river. In places where relief is needed and smallpox is prevalent the government's slogan is "No vaccination, no rations."

City Sealer J. C. Wallenmeyer has returned to this city after a week on the lower river spent in scout work for the government. He says the few houses remaining at Uniontown have been shattered by recent high winds. The people are living in tents there, as at Shawneetown. Both places now are well supplied with provisions. Wallenmeyer estimates that 20,000 people have been made homeless in the Ohio and Wabash valleys near Evansville. Many farmers a few weeks ago worth from $10,000 to $20,000 are drawing rations from the commissary at Mt. Vernon. Their crops are swept into the river and their houses have been shattered by wind and waves.

Boats passing Shawneetown under a full head of steam throw waves that t r down the tottering houses. An excursion boat cutting across the river there threw waves that broke $300 worth of plate glass in front windows. The vigilance committee has picked a squad of men armed with long-range rifles. They have given orders for boats to pass the city slowly, and the first pilot violating the speed order will be shot.

Complaints of the operations of river pirates along the Ohio river near the mouth of Green river have been made to the relief committee.

DISREGARD FLOOD DAMAGE

Assessing Officers Are Not to Take It Into Account.

Indianapolis, April 9.—The state board of tax commissioners has issued a statement to all assessing officers of the state, following a conference with the governor. The statement commands the officers to assess all property at the valuations which would have pertained if no flood conditions in the state had existed. The recourse of property owners damaged by the tremendous floods throughout the state will then be through the county auditors' offices, according to the statement of the board.

The attitude to be assumed by the assessing officials is explicitly set out in the statement. Uniformity of such assessments also is desired. The section of the taxation statutes setting out that all personal property is to be listed between March 1 and May 15 of each year and that the value of all such property on March 1 is to be considered when the assessment is made, is pointed out by the commissioners. Subsequent damage or loss to the property is not to be considered by the assessors, the statement asserts.

The attempt to make uniform the assessments throughout the state and to place in the hands of the county auditors of the state and rebating for flood losses will save the state and counties thousands of dollars, if it is successful, the commissioners believe.

May Abolish Suburb.

Vincennes, Ind., April 9.—Twenty cases of smallpox have developed among the flood sufferers in the suburbs of Oklahoma in the shanty homes to which refugees have returned. The suburb is closely quarantined. A plan is on foot to permanently abolish Oklahoma, which, like Taylorville at Terre Haute, has been a nuisance to Vincennes.

Auto Ran Veteran Down.

Winchester, Ind., April 9.—Frank Campbell, seventy years old, civil war veteran, was struck by Fred Worth's automobile and killed. Worth lives in Union City.

AGREEMENT MADE BY 2 CONTENDERS

"American Salvation Army" Will Change its Name to "American Rescue Workers."

RESEMBLANCE TO ORIGINALS.

An amicable agreement has been entered into between the original Salvation Army—the organization founded by the late General William Booth—and the "American Salvation Army," organized in Pennsylvania by General James William Duffin, as a result of which the American Salvation Army has applied to the courts of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia to amend its charter by changing the name of the corporation to the "American Rescue Workers," and also, have agreed to discontinue the use of the name "American War Cry" for its official paper, and to change the uniform of its officers and soldiers so as to avoid closely resembling that worn by officers of the Salvation Army.

The change is to become operative May 1st, 1913. The change in designation of the American Salvation Army to the American Rescue Workers is made for the purpose of avoiding confusion or misunderstanding on the part of the general public, owing to the similarity to that of the Salvation Army.

MONUMENTS! MONUMENTS!

Our stock of monuments this season, surpasses anything we have heretofore carried, embracing a neat selection from the modestly plain to the elaborately carved from model designs.

An order for a monument placed now will insure its erection for Decoration Day.

The Products from the numerous quarries in the Barre, Vermont, district vary, not alone in color, but also in quality of stock. Who selects yours?

Montello and Millstone granite are of one uniform quality, the highest grade of monumental granite quarried.

RECOGNITION OF
NEW REPUBLIC

America China's First Formal Friend.

THE STAGE NOW IS ALL SET

With the Organization of the National Assembly of the New Republic on the Other Side of the Wide Water, President Wilson's Design to Give Recognition to the New Order Will Be Carried Out.

Washington, April 9.—Secretary of State Bryan has made all arrangements for the recognition of the government of China. This will probably take place as soon as the new assembly has organized and chosen its officers.

The state department has received from the American legation at Peking a dispatch announcing the convening of the new national assembly. A similar dispatch was received at the Chinese legation here and was made the occasion of an informal celebration. The flag of the new republic was flown on the legation building as soon as the news was received.

It is understood the act of recognition will be performed through the American legation in Peking, probably by means of a communication from President Wilson to the Chinese government.

NEW ASSEMBLY CONVENES

Interesting Ceremony Watched With Interest by Foreigners.

Peking, China, April 9.—The first parliament of the world's youngest republic was inaugurated amid general rejoicings not only in the Chinese capital, but throughout the country. The scene of the gathering of the joint inaugural session of the members of the senate and the house of representatives was a remarkable one. Five hundred representatives out of a total of 596 and 177 senators out of 274, all of them earnest men of mature years and nearly all dressed in European fashion, with frock coats, were present.

The proceedings were watched with interest by a large number of foreigners who had packed the galleries. Yuan Shih-kai's message to parliament consisted of hearty congratulations and the expression of the hope that the republic would last ten thousand years.

ACQUIT PROFESSOR OLSON

Jury at St. Paul Sustains the Theory of the Unwritten Law.

St. Paul, Minn., April 9.—Prof. Oscar Olson was acquitted of the charge of killing Clyde Darling, driver for a laundry.

The unwritten law was the defense made by attorneys for Olson. Attorney Donnelly in his argument drew a picture of the husband threatened with death by the man who ruined his home. Olson, the attorney said, was driven to murder by Darling's passion for Mrs. Olson. The unquestioned right of any man to protect his home was dwelt upon.

Children Were Left Alone.

Elwood, Ind., April 9.—Left alone with a five-year-old sister for a few moments while the mother went to the home of a neighbor, Goldie and Lester, one and two years old respectively, children of Mr. and Mrs. Eliza Richard, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the two-room house in which they lived. The older girl, who made a futile attempt to rescue them, was herself badly burned and is at the point of death.

Got Their Experts at Work.

Washington, April 9.—Republican senators are busy picking out inconsistencies and absurdities in the new tariff bill. They seem to be satisfied that they will find the usual crop of jokers and incongruities. It is evident the Republican tariff sharps are revelling in the bill. Experts have been put to work analyzing its features.

Girl Strike Breakers Arrive.

Boston, April 9.—In view of the likelihood of a strike of "hello girls" here, about 600 young women, employees of the American Bell Telephone company, have been brought here from New York for the purpose of taking the places of operators in the Boston district in case the latter should go on strike.

Cornell Student's Complaint.

Ithaca, N. Y., April 9.—Declaring that he was hazed by a party of fellow students, Edward Prallove of Woodbine, N. J., has made complaint to Proctor Twisten of Cornell university. Prallove claims that he was roughly treated and that his hair was forcibly clipped from his head without his consent.

Miss Emerson Out of Jail.

London, April 9.—Miss Zelle Emerson, the American suffragette, has been released from Holloway jail. There had been much agitation over the condition of Miss Emerson, and her mother and friends in America had appealed to the United States government to look into her case.

POPE'S CONDITION
CREATES ANXIETY

Head of Church Has Suffered
Another Relapse.

Rome, April 9.—Although the Osservatore Romano, the official organ of the vatican, says there is no ground for alarm, Pope Pius X. has suffered another relapse and his condition is regarded as extremely serious. Nevertheless his physicians are in constant attendance on the pontiff and many of the members of the sacred college are greatly alarmed over his condition. The physicians have issued an official statement in which they state that the pope has suffered a relapse of influenza which is complicated by catarrh and fever.

It is learned indirectly that the pontiff is also suffering from a uremic crisis, with fainting fits which threaten utter collapse, but so far have been combatted successfully by subcutaneous injections of caffeine and theobromine and frequent doses of bitter water.

There is great anxiety over the condition of the pontiff owing to his weakness and his age, seventy-eight. The doctors, however, are hopeful, as the pope overcame the first crisis, which was very alarming, and consequently they do not exclude the possibility of his recovery.

The Osservatore Romano, while admitting great care and precautions are necessary and that it will take a long time to cure the pope's present illness, maintains that there is no ground for apprehension. On the other hand several of the cardinals do not conceal their anxiety as to his condition, and the diplomats assigned to the vatican have telegraphed their governments that Cardinal Merry Del Val, the papal secretary of state, admits that the condition of the pontiff is serious.

NOT READY FOR IT YET

Michigan Votes Down Amendment Providing For Woman's Suffrage.

Detroit, Mich., April 9.—Woman suffrage in Michigan was generally conceded hopelessly defeated in Monday's election when returns received from the rural districts of the state did not tend to materially decrease the big majority rolled up against the amendment by the early returns. Its opponents predicted a majority of at least 25,000.

An Army Aviator Killed.

San Diego, Cal., April 9.—Lieutenant Rex Chamblor, coast artillery corps, U. S. A., was instantly killed and Lieutenant L. H. Brereton, U. S. A., was badly hurt in the fall of a hydroplane in the sea.

Former Councilman Missing.

Columbus, Ind., April 9.—Harry Meyers, former city councilman, has been missing from home a week and friends fear foul play. He was last seen en route to Indianapolis.

STATE GUARDS
HOLD BUFFALO

City Found Itself In Grasp
of Rioters.

STREETCAR STRIKE IS SERIOUS

Strikers Effectually Stop Operation of Company's Lines Amid Scenes of Violence Which Result in Scores of Injured Being Sent to Hospitals. While Hundreds of Cars Were Wrecked—State Guard Called Out.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 9.—Not a wheel turning in the city, scores of injured in the hospitals and 400 cars wrecked is the present situation in Buffalo in consequence of the carmen's strike. On an order from Justice Spring of the supreme court, two regiments of the state militia were called out today, including Troop I of the First state cavalry.

Two attempts were made on the life of Chief of Police Regan while he was on his way in an automobile to the different parts of the city where riots were going on, by some unknown person who fired three shots at the chief which narrowly missed him.

Francis Murphy, thirteen years old, was shot in the hip and dangerously wounded in a riot at the Walden avenue barns. The shooting was done, the police say, by one of seventy-five strike breakers, who were transferred to the Walden avenue barns in a streetcar.

One good-sized stick of dynamite was found with a cap attached under a corner of the floor of the Forrest avenue car barns, and the chief of police ordered that investigations be made at all other barns.

ENOUGH STATES RESPOND

Amendment For Direct Election of Senators Carried.

Washington, April 9.—Connecticut having ratified the constitutional amendment for direct election of senators, the last ratification needed to furnish the necessary three-fourths of the states, the amendment is now a part of the constitution of the United States and hereafter senators will be chosen by direct vote of the people.

The adoption of the amendment to the constitution must be officially proclaimed through the state department, and this cannot occur until the secretary of state has received the formal advices of the ratifications of all the thirty-six states. Up to this time only about twenty-five have transmitted their official notifications.

President Wilson expressed great gratification when told that the last state necessary to the ratification of the amendment had acted.

"I am sincerely glad that the amendment has been ratified so promptly and a reform so long fought for at last accomplished," Mr. Wilson said.

Closing Up the Trotteries.

New York, April 9.—The turkey trotters and the tangoers have found out that the mayor meant business when he told Commissioner Waldo that the rag-time dancing craze had gone far enough. He has stopped all dancing at George Rector's, the Tavern Louis and the Follies Bergere, has made ready to close other dance halls over which his bureau of licenses has power, and has asked the legislature to require all hotels with trottery attachments to take out dance hall licenses.

Disbursing Funds on Governor's Order

Indianapolis, April 9.—Hugh Dougherty, trustee for the state's flood relief funds, has reported to the governor that he has collected a total of $91,275.41 from the various contributors to the relief fund. Of this amount approximately $35,000 has been spent to date, Mr. Dougherty said. He said he was expending the money only on the order of the governor.

No Assault on Scutari.

London, April 9.—Although there is no direct news from the scene, it seems that no direct assault has been made on Scutari as reported heretofore, and that hostilities have been suspended.

Body Found in Church.

South Bend, Ind., April 9.—The body of Gilbert Huff was found in a church in Clinton township, St. Joseph county. He had escaped from the northern insane hospital, reached the church and starved to death.

Flood Succeeded by Typhoid.

Anderson, Ind., April 9.—Many cases of typhoid have been reported by physicians. It is supposed use of impure water since the flood is the cause.

She Tried to Kill Herself.

Hartford City, Ind., April 9.—Mrs. Ross Foreman, sixteen years old, tried to commit suicide by drinking poison in coffee. She will recover.

Burns Terminate Fatally.

Shelburn, Ind., April 9.—Margaret Gray, severely burned by the explosion of gasoline while starting a fire, is dead from the effects of the burns.

Ended His Life in a Well.

Wilkinson, Ind., April 9.—Cort D. Bates, living on a farm near here, committed suicide by jumping into a well.

MEXICAN BULLETS
FLY OVER BORDER

Arizona Town Riddled During Battle of Naco.

Naco, Ariz., April 9.—In yesterday's fighting on the other side of the border forty Mexican federals were slain and almost as many were wounded. Last night General Ojeda went out from his position a second time to drive back the rebels and decisively defeated them. The rebels early last night had started to enter the town, but Ojeda's forces met them on the outskirts and put them to flight. Ojeda's force is now reduced by slain, wounded and desertions to less than 250, but he continues to hold the town against 1,500 rebels.

Naco, Ariz., was riddled with Mexican bullets during the battle. Four American troopers of the Ninth cavalry were wounded and the entire population of the American town remained under cover during the battle.

A THOROUGH INVESTIGATION

Federal Relief of Flood Sufferers Will Not Be Extended Hastily.

Washington, April 9.—The policy of the committees on appropriations will not be to ask the congress to appropriate money for the relief of the flood sufferers unless they are convinced that the Red Cross is unable to cope with the situation. One thing is certain, and that is that the committees have no notion of recommending the reckless expenditure of public moneys.

Of course, if the committees were convinced that federal aid were needed and that the million and a half dollars that the Red Cross has received to aid the victims of the high water was insufficient to relieve the immediate needs in the flood section, they would "come to bat" at once.

"Not a sou from the federal treasury for the relief of flood victims in Indiana and Ohio."

MAN EXISTS AFTER DEATH IN FORM OF GAS, IS CLAIM.

German Scientists Assert Unusual Discovery.

Man exists after death in the form of gas endowed with intelligence. This is alleged to be the discovery of two Germans described as scientific spiritualists. They are Messrs. Matia and Zaalberg Van Zelt.

The Germans constructed an apparatus by which they might measure the spirit superman whom they have christened the "man force."

The experiments are stated to have shown that the "man force" is not what can properly be termed "soul" as it was amenable and responded to physical tests. On the other hand, it is not a body, as it is invisible. It is therefore defined as a gaseous composition.

In 1904 the Germans were told by the spirits to make two air tight cylinders and to cover the outer and inner sides of these cylinders with sheets of tin. The spirits stated that they would be able to penetrate the cylinder and would be kept there by the tin.

Attached to the cylinder was a highly sensitive recorder, and it is from records made that the scientific spiritualists state they have found that—

The records were made by a limited being.

The being had intelligence since it took part in the experiments.

The being was gaseous, as it obeyed the laws which govern gases.

The density of the body was equal to that of air.

DEADLIEST GUN INVENTED.

Frenchman Designs Weapon Which Throws Light on Object.

A French inventor has made a frightful addition to the efficacy of the revolver. A small but powerful electric light is attached to the mechanism of a pistol of ordinary size. By use of lenses and mirrors the glare of the circle of light which the lamp throws is bright enough to be clearly seen in daylight against so light an object as a light colored suit of clothes. Now, the center of the circle of light, marked by a black spot, by arrangement of the lenses is exactly the spot where the bullet will strike. Thus all one has to do is to place the black center of the blazing circle of light over the heart of an adversary and pull the trigger.

At night the light is shockingly strong. Experiments with the new weapon show that perfect greenhorns, who have never used a revolver in their lives, can shoot far more accurately than experts using an ordinary pistol. Up to sixty yards one cannot miss a small bulleseye, day or night, while extremely accurate shooting is possible up to 100 yards. The lamp arrangement adjusts automatically by levels to distances.

Fakers.

With the receding of the floods in Indiana and Ohio, and the revelation of the facts as they really are, people are beginning to wonder what dependence may be put in newspaper reports of disasters and calamities that give such ample opportunity for exaggeration and sensationalism.

Basing their judgment on the reports of enormous loss of life sent broadcast over the country by the various newsgathering associations and the "special staff" correspondents of the metropolitan papers, the natural conclusion is that newspaper reports are not to be depended on. This is unfortunate, for the average newspaper would rather print the truth than the opposite, but there are some—in fact too many—so-called newspapers published in the larger cities, and especially Chicago, that rely seemingly on exaggeration and sensationalism to maintain circulation and sales.

During the flood period wild-eyed, sensational news-mongers frightened the entire country with their scandalous falsehoods about conditions in the flooded districts. It is known that one news service scattered broadcast the report that Indianapolis had been practically swept away by the water and that all that remained of the city was being destroyed by fire. This same report said 15,000 had been killed in that city alone, and that thousands had been killed in other cities of the State, one estimate placing the total loss of life in Indiana alone at 40,000.

One newspaper reporter sent out a story to his papers that he himself had taken twenty-five dead bodies out of the water. This was a lie of the worst kind. The total death toll in Indianapolis, relying on actual known conditions, is but three.

When these wild-eyed, sensational and wooly reports got out over the country the nation stood appalled at the calamity, while thousands of relatives and friends of those living in the flooded cities frantically sought the telegraph offices for information. Wires were down and railroad communication was broken, making reliable information from the stricken places impossible to obtain.

The fact is that many of the most sensational reports were written in the office of the newspaper publishing them. Some few facts were possibly obtained over some lone telegraph wire or telephone line, and this meagre data was turned over to some "brilliant" young chap with more imagination than brains, and being told by the "man at the desk" to "make a story" out of that and "play it up strong," did his work. It is said that one Chicago newspaper keeps on its staff one man who does nothing save take the plainest of facts of some story other reporters would only tell the truth about, and out of these make the most lurid and sensational tale—purely from imagination. So it must have been with the reports of the enormous loss of life from the floods.

Garden Hopes.

It is one thing to turn over the fruitful earth in the mild sweet days of spring, when it is a pleasure to be alive, and out-doors.

It is quite another thing to stick to a garden through the thick and thin of torrid July, in view of the irreconcilable objection entertained by most living things to growing in the shade.

It is to be feared that the present generation starts a garden merely from mercenary motives of cutting down the grocery bill. The old-timers got their pay in the fun of the thing. The sight of precious plants struggling against "witch-grass," was as distressing as a family of dirty, ragged children. A freshly weeded garden with all interlopers uprooted, gave them as much pleasure as the modern man feels in a shiny automobile. The fruit of the garden then bore a very considerable resemblance to the seed catalogue, which it doesn't today.

There is a feeling in diplomatic circles that American ambassadors should be given homes and that they do not make a dignified spectacle riding through the streets of a foreign city on a load of household goods.

If they keep on ripping off the forests from the headwaters of the streams, there are many garages that would better be turned into boat houses.

Vice-President Marshall is speaking at many public functions. The free dinners will be quite an item at the present high cost of living.

Mr. Taft was greeted by the famous frog chorus on reaching Yale. In the New England climate this is accepted as a sign of spring.

What will the millionaires do for a plaything if they can't have the ambassadorships?

WAR VETERAN DIES

INCESSANT RAIN
KEEPS PEOPLE AWAY

But Mrs. Ruth Tevis Spencer's Recital at Main Street Christian Church Was Enjoyed.

COSTUMES ARE APPROPRIATE

Although the weather last night was very inclement, the crowd at the Main Street Christian church to hear the recital by Mrs. Ruth Tevis Spencer of Indianapolis, formerly of this city, was not as small as it was feared it would be when the rain began to fall incessantly. The two Sunday school classes which had the recital in charge realized a small amount, although they would probably have made much more with more favorable weather. Mrs. Spencer gave a splendid recital and the audience went away pleased. She appeared in costume appropriate to the three classes of songs she sang. It was the first time many people had heard Mrs. Spencer since she moved from here to Indianapolis.

SUES C. H. & D. FOR $35,500 DAMAGES

Hugh Kemp, Victim of Irvington Wreck, Also Makes Trainmen Defendants.

ONE LEG IS MADE SHORTER

Hugh Kemp, a resident of Frankfort, Ky., but now in a hospital in Indianapolis, where he has been since the C. H. & D. wreck at Irvington, last November, has filed suit in superior court for $35,500 in damages, the defendants being the railway, Willis York, engineer, and Carl Gross, head brakeman on the freight, which was in collision, says the Indianapolis News.

Kemp alleges that he was pinned under the timbers and other parts of a wrecked coach, that he received several cuts on the head and face, that his arm was cut in several places and is now useless, that his hip was crushed, one leg permanently made shorter than the other, and that he was otherwise injured. Hospital fees accrued total $500, he alleges.

Society News

The Palace will show the usual two pictures tonight. "Nell of the Pampas" is the title of the first. It is an American drama. The other is a Thanhouse drama "For the Mikado."

The Princess offers a Lubin comedy drama "The Insurance Agent." Arthur Johnson and Lottie Briscoe are featured in this picture, which is said to be a very clever production. The other is a Biograph drama entitled "The Tenderhearted Boy." On Friday night this theater will give a benefit show for the Brookville relief fund. A feature show will be given and the usual prices will prevail.

"Excuse Me," the Pullman farce, by Rupert Hughes, which was to have played at the Murat theater in Indianapolis the latter half of last week, found itself unpleasantly marooned along the Ohio river and did not arrive until Saturday. Because of this the company remained in Indianapolis this week and will play an engagement the last three days, with a matinee Saturday.

"Excuse Me" is too well known to need further introduction to Indianapolis theatergoers. It is sufficient to remind them that the farce takes place on board a Pullman train traveling from Chicago to the Pacific coast, and that all the mishaps and ludicrous incidents possible only on a Pullman have been crammed into his play by Mr. Hughes. The engagement, as now announced, includes performances Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights with matinee Saturday. The company includes Geraldine O'Brien, George W. Day, Vivian Blackburn, Edna Mayo and many others.

Mr. and Mrs. Clem Hall have moved to the old Eakins farm in the Plum Creek neighborhood.

GOAL OF FUND IS NOT FAR DISTANT

There are many men out yet who have declared their intention of helping their neighbors.

The school children capped the climax this afternoon by giving the largest single contribution thus far offered. About three o'clock Prof. J. H. Scholl, superintendent of the schools, announced over the telephone that $57.66 had been given in the Rushville public schools today, which was set as the time for the subscriptions to be brought. More was expected at the close of school today and will be reported tomorrow.

The local chapters of the American Revolution exceeded the contribution of any women's organization and they are to be highly complimented on their generosity.

Every gift is acceptable, no matter how small, because often times the giving of a small sum by one person means a much greater sacrifice than the gift of many times as large a sum by others.

The employees of the Rush Glove Company subscribed $14.85 at the factory today and sent it to the Republican office. Their efforts are especially praiseworthy because they have helped five or six Rushville people who suffered from the flood.

J. D. Case wired William Fowler of Macon, Georgia, about the conditions at Brookville, and the local fund, and he responded at once with $50. The appeal struck home because Mr. Fowler formerly lived in Brookville. He and Mr. Case have been associated together in the lumber business in the south for several years.

The people of Rushville have contributed practically all of the fund thus far. Farmers have been conspicuous by their absence. Their assistance is earnestly solicited.

Arrangements were made today for bed clothing to be taken to Brookville for the flood sufferers. Will O. Fendner of The Daily Republican and Ralph Kennedy of the dry goods firm of Kennedy and Casady donated the use of their automobiles in which to haul the bed clothing.

They were busy this afternoon gathering up the bed clothing that has been donated. The names of the people who were kind enough to give of their supply will be published. Those who have bed clothing to give, and have no way of sending it to The Daily Republican office by 7:30 tomorrow morning, can call this office this evening and the articles will be called for after supper. No furniture can be hauled in the automobiles, and for this reason none was gathered this afternoon. People who wish to give good substantial furniture are requested to notify The Daily Republican as some means will be arranged for to send it to Brookville.

The two automobiles will each haul a load of bed clothing to Brookville either tomorrow or Friday. It is expected that there will be enough to fill both machines. It depends largely on the weather conditions whether the trip is made tomorrow.

Rushville is responding liberally to the call of distress from the neighboring county, but there are yet many men who are capable of giving money, and who are expected to make the necessary donations to reach the mark of one thousand dollars for the fund. It is known that several men propose to make a generous subscription yet. The work of the women's clubs has been especially notable. Most of them have responded nobly and many more are preparing to raise a good sum for the fund.

The members of the Coterie club, which meets tonight, have made it known that they intend to take up a collection. The L. A. of the A. O. H. have announced a euchre party at their club rooms for tomorrow afternoon, the proceeds to go to the fund.

The Tri Kappas took up a collection of $4.50 at their meeting Monday night and it was added to the fund today. They have announced that they will hold an exchange Saturday to raise more money to help the flood sufferers. The Princess theater will give a benefit show for the cause Friday night, and the suggestion that the high school play, "Mr. Bob," be repeated for the fund Friday night is being seriously considered.

"Well I suppose Rushville has responded liberally to the call for help," said a Liberty man to a Rushville man.

The Rushville man was ashamed to answer that Rushville had done nothing, unlike many of her sister cities, but explained that a fund for Brookville was being raised.

The Liberty man said that his town had sent three car loads of provisions and clothes and $350 in cash to Hamilton, Ohio, after the flood and the terrible conditions were known. Another fund for flood sufferers is being raised there now.

The conditions at Brookville have been presented to Rushville people, but John K. Gowdy has a clear and concise story of the real situation in a letter from John C. Shirk, president of the National Brookville bank and treasurer of the relief fund:

"Your wire received. I have been trying to phone you for two hours but could not get through. So I wired you answering your wire yes, Am writing."

From all information I can get we are the worse hit town in Indiana. 213 families were driven out or damaged by the flood. 786 persons homeless.

We need beds (except mattresses) bedclothing, other furniture and money.

Our committee is working to find out just what we must have for each family to get them back into their homes.

One must see the devastated district here to appreciate our loss. We are doing all we can to help them, and we appreciate any outside help we get.

Our neighboring towns have been very generous in helping us.

Very Sincerely Yours,

JOHN C. SHIRK,
Treasurer Relief Fund.

DRAIN CASE COMES TO SUDDEN ENDING

After Three Days' Trial it is Sent Back to Viewers on Motion of Defense.

IS NOT ACCORDING TO LAW

The Robert Gardner drain case came to a sudden end this afternoon when the attorneys for the defense made a motion that it be sent back to the viewers and the assessments be made over once more. The motion was sustained by Wallace Morgan, who was acting as judge in the case. One of the allegations of the remonstrators was that the assessments of viewers were not made according to law and after three days' trial the defense admitted this and asked that the viewers make another report. The original defense admitted this and asked that the viewers make another report. The original viewers were J. M. Amos, Thomas Jones and Adolphus Cameron, county surveyor. These men with the exception of Mr. Jones will again go over the proposed drain and assess the benefits and damages. The case was taken to the circuit court from the commissioners court and has been pending two years.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual congregational meeting of the First Presbyterian church congregation will be held in the church parlors Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Reports from the church boards and organizations will be made and other business relating to the temporal affairs of the church will be considered. A full attendance of members is desired.

CHAPTER XVII.

In Which a Book Plays a Leading Part.

When Mr. Brotherson came in that night, he noticed that the door of the room adjoining his own stood open. He did not hesitate. Making immediately for it, he took a glance inside, then spoke up with a ringing intonation:

"Halloo! coming to live in this hole?"

The occupant—a young man, evidently a workman and somewhat sickly if one could judge from his complexion—turned around from some tinkering he was engaged in and met the intruder fairly, face to face.

"Yes, this is to be my castle. Are you the owner of the buildings? If so—"

"I am not the owner. I live next door. Haven't I seen you before, young man?"

"If you go up Henry street it's likely enough that you've seen me not once, but many times. I'm the fellow who works at the bench next the window in Schuper's repairing shop. Everybody knows me."

"I've seen you. I've seen you somewhere else than in Schuper's shop. Do you remember me?"

"No, sir; I'm sorry to be imperlite but I don't remember you at all. Won't you sit down? It's not very cheerful, but I'm so glad to get out of the room I was in last night that this looks all right to me. Back there, other building," he whispered. "I didn't know, and took the room which had a window in it; but—" The stop was significant; so was his smile, which had a touch of sickness in it, as well as humor.

But Brotherson was not to be caught.

"I saw you," said he. "You were standing in the window overlooking the court. You were not sleeping then. I suppose you know that a woman died in that room?"

"Yes, they told me so this morning."

"Was that the first you'd heard of it?"

"Sure!" The word almost jumped at the questioner. "Do you suppose I'd have taken the room if—"

But here the intruder, with a disdainful grunt, turned and went out, disgust in every feature—plain, unmistakable, downright disgust, and nothing more!

This was what gave Sweetwater his second bad night; this and a certain discovery he made. He had counted on hearing what went on in the neighboring room through the partition running back of his own closet.

Eleven o'clock! Twelve o'clock! No Change on Brotherson's Part.

But he could hear nothing, unless it was the shutting down of a window, a loud sneeze, or the rattling of coals as they were put on the fire. And these possessed no significance. What he wanted was to catch the secret sigh, the muttered word, the involuntary movement. He was too far removed from this man still.

How should he manage to get nearer him—at the door of his mind—of his heart? Sweetwater stared all night from his miserable cot into the darkness of that separating closet, and with no result. His task looked hopeless; no wonder that he could get no rest.

Next morning he felt ill, but he rose all the same, and tried to get his own breakfast. He had but partially succeeded and was sitting on the edge of his bed in wretched discomfort, when the very man he was thinking of appeared at his door.

"I've come to see how you are," said Brotherson. "I noticed that you didn't look well last night. Won't you come in and share my pot of coffee?"

"I—I can't eat," mumbled Sweetwater, for once in his life thrown completely off his balance. "You're very kind, but I'll manage all right. I'd rather, I'm not quite dressed, you see, and I must get to the shop." Then he thought—"What an opportunity I'm losing. Have I any right to turn tail because he plays his game from the outset with trumps? No, I've a small trump somewhere about me to lay on this trick. It isn't an ace, but it'll show I'm not chicaner." And smiling, though not with his usual cheerfulness, Sweetwater added, "Is the coffee all made? I might take a drop of that. But you mustn't ask me to eat—I just couldn't."

"Yes, the coffee is made and it isn't bad either. You'd better put on your coat; the hall's draughty." And waiting till Sweetwater did so, he led the way back to his own room. Brotherson's manner expressed perfect ease. Sweetwater's not. He knew himself changed in looks, in bearing, in feeling, even; but was he changed enough to deceive this man on the very spot where they had confronted each other a few days before in a keen moral struggle?

"I'm going out myself today, so we'll have to hurry a bit," was Brotherson's first remark as they seated themselves at table. "Do you like your coffee plain or with milk in it?"

"Plain. Gosh! what pictures! Where do you get 'em? You must have a lot of coin." Sweetwater was staring at the row of photographs, mostly of a very high order, tacked along the wall separating the two rooms. They were unframed, but they were mostly copies of great pictures, and the effect was rather imposing in contrast to the shabby furniture and the otherwise homely fittings.

"Yes, I've enough for that kind of thing," was his host's reply. But the tone was reserved, and Sweetwater did not presume again along this line. Instead, he looked well at the books piled upon the shelves under these photographs, and wondered aloud at their number and at the man who could waste such a lot of time in reading them. But he made no more direct remarks.

Yet there was one cheerful moment. It was when he noticed the careless way in which those books were arranged upon their shelves. An idea had come to him. He hid his relief in his cup, as he drained the last drops of the coffee, which really tasted better than he expected.

When he returned from work that afternoon it was with an auger under his coat and a conviction which led him to empty out the contents of a small phial which he took down from a shelf. He had told Mr. Gryce that he was eager for the business because of its difficulties, but that was when he was feeling fine and up to any game which might come his way. Now he felt weak and easily discouraged. This would not do. He must regain his health at all hazards, so he poured out the mixture which had given him such a sickly air. This done and a rude supper eaten, he took up his auger. He had heard Mr. Brotherson's step go by. But next minute he laid it down again in great haste and flung a newspaper over it. Mr. Brotherson was coming back, had stopped at his door, had knocked and must be let in.

"You're better this evening," he heard in those kindly tones which so confused and irritated him.

"Yes," was the surly admission.

Then Mr. Brotherson passed on, and Sweetwater listened till he was sure that his too attentive neighbor had really gone down the three flights between him and the street. Then he took up his auger again and shut himself up in his closet.

There was nothing peculiar about this closet. It was just an ordinary one with drawers and shelves on one side, and an open space on the other for the hanging up of clothes. Very few clothes hung there at present; but it was in this portion of the closet that he stopped and began to try the wall of Brotherson's room, with the butt end of the tool he carried.

The sound seemed to satisfy him, for very soon he was boring a hole at a point exactly level with his ear.

"Neat as well as useful," was the gay comment with which Sweetwater surveyed his work, then laid his ear to the hole. Whereas previously he could barely hear the rattling of coals from the coal-scuttle, he was now able to catch the sound of an ash falling into the ash-pit.

His next move was to test the depth of the partition by inserting his finger in the hole he made. He found it stopped by some obstacle before it had reached half its length, and anxious to satisfy himself of the nature of the obstacle, he gently moved the tip of his finger to and fro over what was certainly the edge of a book.

This proved that his calculations had been correct and that the opening so accessible on his side, was completely veiled on the other by the books he had seen packed on the shelves. He had even been careful to assure himself that all the volumes at this exact point stood far enough forward to afford room behind them for the chips and plaster he must necessarily push through with his auger, and also—important consideration—for the free passage of the sounds by which he hoped to profit.

But it was days before he could trust himself so far. Meanwhile their acquaintance ripened, though with no very satisfactory results. The detective found himself led into telling stories of his early home-life to keep pace with the man who always had something of moment and solid interest to impart. This was undesirable, for instead of calling out a corresponding confidence from Brotherson, it only seemed to make his conversation more coldly impersonal.

In consequence, Sweetwater suddenly found himself quite well and one evening, when he was sure that his neighbor was at home, he slid softly into his closet and laid his ear to the opening he had made there. The result was unexpected. Mr. Brotherson was pacing the floor, and talking softly to himself.

At first, the cadence and full music of the tones conveyed nothing to our far from literary detective. The victim of his secret machinations was expressing himself in words, words—that was the point which counted with him. But as he listened longer and gradually took in the sense of these words, his heart went down lower and lower till it reached his boots. His inscrutable and ever disappointing neighbor was not indulging in self-communings of any kind. He was reciting poetry, and what was worse, poetry which he only half remembered and was trying to recall—an incredible occupation for a man weighted with a criminal secret.

Sweetwater was disgusted, and was withdrawing in high indignation from his vantage-point when something occurred of a startling enough nature to hold him where he was in almost breathless expectation.

The hole which in the darkness of the closet was always faintly visible, even when the light was not very strong in the adjoining room, had suddenly become a bright and shining loop-hole, with a suggestion of movement in the space beyond. The book which had hid this hole on Brotherson's side had been taken down—the one book in all those hundreds whose removal threatened Sweetwater's schemes, if not himself.

For an instant the thwarted detective listened for the angry shout or the smothered oath which would naturally follow the discovery by Brotherson of this attempted interference with his privacy.

But all was still on his side of the wall. A rustling of leaves could be heard, as the inventor searched for the poem he wanted, but nothing more. In withdrawing the book, he had failed to notice the hole in the plaster back of it. But he could hardly fail to see it when he came to put the book back. Meantime, suspense for Sweetwater.

NEW PROCESS TO MAKE STEEL

Industry to Be Revolutionized, Says London Report.

The steel industry will be revolutionized if the claims of a recently invented process of manufacturing it prove to be true. According to the announcement, a process has been discovered for converting iron ore of any grade, including the heretofore useless iron sands, into steel of the best quality. The feature of the new process is that blast furnaces will be done away with, thus saving enormous fuel bills.

Tests which have been made recently have produced remarkable results. The ore is reduced by heat obtained from a gas, which in its turn is produced from slack. It is said that by the new process the cost of manufacturing steel will be reduced to one-third of its present figure.

WIRELESS CAUSES DISEASE.

German Physicians Discover a New Ailment.

To the list of adjuncts of modern life that bring new diseases is now added radiotelegraphy.

The German physicians who have just discovered the disease call it wireless sickness. It consists of anaemia with a marked diminution in the number of red corpuscles in the blood. The doctors ascribe it partly to the unhealthy surroundings of wireless operators, who generally work in tiny rooms, and partly to the overexertion of the air they breathe by reason of the alternating currents used to generate the waves.

AMERICANS TO BE LIKE THE INDIANS

Facial Features of the Race Changing.

EXPERTS DESCRIBE TREND.

English Physiognomists Tell How High Cheek Bones, Coarse Black Hair, Immobility and Other Aboriginal Characteristics Are Coming In. Other Races Affected.

English physiognomists assert that Americans as a nation are going back to first principles in the matter of facial appearances. In other words, instead of progressing in the line of Anglo-Saxon beauty they are gradually but surely beginning to look like Indians.

Not only are they becoming to look like Indians as a race, but the residents of each section of the country are taking on the facial traits of the particular tribes that originally roamed over the territory in which they were born.

The physiognomists in question in commenting upon these changes say in substance that the American face is steadily changing; that it is a curious fact that the typical American face is becoming to resemble more and more closely that of the original resident of the same land. The Indian's high and prominent cheek bones, lank hair, thin lips and impressive expression are some of the noticeable changes that are being brought about.

They assert that the American blond is now passing into history and that a few years the wire haired, beardless individual will take up the center of the stage as the distinctive American type.

Other Nations Changing.

The future cartoon of your Uncle Samuel, according to their figuring, instead of being the fine old gentleman with the slippery elm cud hidden away in his cheek, the long hirsute draperies on his chin and the rosy face that reflects all there is in good nature and Yankee humor, will be re-

Mrs. Hardwork—"I never go anywhere on Monday night. I'm always tired out with washing all day."

Anty Drudge—"Why don't you use Fels-Naptha Soap as Mrs. Nuway does? Then you wouldn't be tired and your wash would be drying on the line before noon."

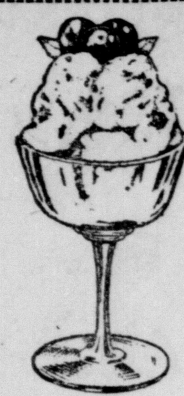

If you hired a girl to do the washing, you wouldn't do it yourself while she sat in the parlor. Then, when you get a cake of Fels-Naptha Soap, use it the Fels-Naptha way, and let it do the work.

If you use Fels-Naptha Soap as you would other soaps, you are like the woman who does the work while her hired girl plays the Piano.

placed by a solemn individual of copper hue, with as much expression in his face as a pan of milk and with hair that suggests barbed wire. Why all this change they know not. Suffice it to say that such is the decree.

Not only are Americans changing in type, but so also are the Japanese, the New Zealanders, the French, the Italians and even our British cousins themselves.

The change in the Japanese is due, so they say, to the change of diet. Where formerly every visit to the table was met with a bowl of rice, now pork chops, butcher's tenderloins and veal cutlets breaded greet them.

After several years of experimenting Japan decided to put meat on the daily diet of her navy, with the result that where the experiment was made the lucky ones who were chosen for the test began to sprout in two directions, up and across. It was noticed that the men of the ships where beef was served grew about three-quarters of an inch on the average. Throughout the island empire entrees and roasts have been taken up, with the result that the Jap generally is growing to be a taller individual.

United States consuls report that local tailors complain that since the introduction of meat there has been a general demand for more cloth in making clothes. Another noticeable change that has been brought about is the condition of their hair. Heretofore their hair has been as upright and as bristly as a gallows, but now it is becoming as smooth and lank as the average American's. Hair oil and hair brushes, as a result, have become standard articles of sale through the country where only a few years ago the former was generally thought to be something to drink and the latter was mistaken for a petrified animal of porcupine order.

"Bottle" Nose Coming.

New Zealanders are taking on the "bottle" nose, not as a fashion, but because changes are also coming about down there. The "bottle" nose is the style of nose that spreads across the face rather than stands out from it, sometimes referred to by physiognomists as the "squat aquiline." This nose is typical of the New Zealand aborigine, the Maori.

The dapper little Frenchman heretofore known for his raven hair and mustaches and imperial of the same hue will in the future break out as fair, as large and as husky as the Oles, the Yons and the Svens of the north. No longer, of course, according to the physiognomists, will he be seen draped in his balloony pants on the field of honor seeking "revanche" in the jeu d'eepe, jumping about like the little wooden object that as children we used to push up and down a stick. Instead he will come lumbering on to the selected place a mass of muscles, with tawny hair, ready to do battle in support of his good name with a club or some other such weapon.

The Cavaliers of Italy will no longer be the same dark objects that they are today, but instead will play a close second in the matter of physical make-up to their French cousins across the border. That is, they, too, will be husky blonds with pale blue wall paper eyes.

INTERNAL STRIFE BESETS PORTUGAL

Different Factions Rive the Nation.

MANY ATROCITIES ENACTED

Carbonarios Prey on Royalists—Prisoners Kept in Loathsome Cells. Youths Sentenced Unjustly to Years of Penal Servitude—Government Powerless Against Its Enemies.

Not since the declaration of the republic have affairs in Portugal been in such a desperate condition as they are at present, politically, financially and socially, says a correspondent in Lisbon. There is virtually no political leader in power who has the future good of the country at heart. All seem bent on advancing their positions or filling their pockets in the shortest possible time, believing that the present state of affairs cannot continue and that they must make hay while the sun shines for them. These are the general principles on which those in power are united. They differ as to the quickest and most effective way of carrying these principles out.

The most dangerous thorn in the side of the nation are the Carbonarios, whose leader is Senhor Luz Almeida, a man who stops at nothing to show his animosity against the royalist families, although there is no danger to be expected from them. It is to the influence of the Carbonarios that the prisoners taken at various times since the revolution of two and a half years ago are slowly brought to trial and are in the meantime kept in filthy cells in the criminal prisons.

Such was the case of a daughter of the Count of Cascaes, a member of the ancient family of Gama, the tale of whose sufferings has recently been published in the European and American press. Her only crime was that in distributing the funds and food she received by popular subscription she ignored criminals and gave only to political prisoners. This in the opinion of the Carbonarios constituted a "manifestation of political solidarity."

Government Helpless.

How helpless the government is before the Carbonarios is shown by the fate of the general amnesty bill introduced a few weeks ago, which had to be withdrawn because the "agents provocateurs" of this party through their press and even by public posters declared with circumstantial evidence that a royalist rebellion was at hand. Some arrests were made, but the prisoners turned out to be some peasants who had started an agitation to have their churches kept open in defiance of the government's order. Senhor Luz Almeida openly acknowledged the ruse to which his agents had resorted and said that he intended it as a warning, prompted by "the wave of false generosity which had invaded the spirit of sincere republicans."

A few months ago, when the antagonism against the royalists seemed to have died out, an attempt was made to hasten their trials, with the result that the juries, through lack of evidence, began to acquit about three out of five. Thereupon a panic seized the Carbonarios. They organized mobs at Oporto and Lisbon, who attacked the juries in the streets, the lawyers for the defense and the prisoners as they left the court. Since then military tribunals have tried the cases, and there have been very few acquittals indeed.

A Terrible Penalty.

There were five young royalists who had been acquitted by a civil court rearrested on charges identical to those formerly brought against them. All were found guilty by a military tribunal and sentenced to six years' confinement in the penitentiary, or criminal prison, to be followed by deportation for ten years to a penal settlement in Africa. In other words, these innocent youths were dressed in monastic garb, had their heads shaved, were placed in solitary cells and obliged to wear a thick hood over head and face, with slits for eyes and mouth.

This Carbonarios society, which since the revolution has become a menacing political party, but without any political propaganda whatever, as the instigator and creator of the revolution has had no excuse for existence since the declaration of the republic, but the offices it naturally took under the provisional government its members have been loath to surrender. It has therefore felt the necessity to justify its position by organizing throughout the country a system of spying and disquiet. Where there were no conspiracies, conspiracies were invented, the possession of a title or wealth—especially the latter—or the fact of having rendered service to the state or church under the monarchy being sufficient to cause arrest, followed by atrocities only equaled by the reign of terror.

EQUIPS SHIP FOR GAMBLING.

Ostend Proprietor Avoids Law by Chartering Big Yacht.

Marquet, the proprietor of the famous casino at Ostend, having been barred by recent legislation from allowing gambling in his establishment, has chartered a large steam yacht to ply between Ostend and other resorts.

There is a luxurious saloon aboard for gambling, but this will only be allowed outside the three mile limit.

DOG MEAT CONSIDERED LUXURY BY THE INDIANS.

New Custom of Germans Long Practiced in United States.

The use of dog flesh as a food for man is becoming common even in the capital, said a recent news item from Berlin, but the Germans are only adopting a food considered a substantial diet for centuries by some American Indian tribes.

In Oklahoma the Cheyennes and Arapahoes and the Sacs and Foxes are dog eaters, and the few white men who have eaten dog flesh while visiting with these Indians say that it is not unlike other meats when cooked. Old timers among the plains Indians, scouts, trappers and frontiersmen generally, who have eaten dog flesh with these tribes, pronounce it good.

The eating of dog meat by the Indians, however, is a centuries old custom. The Cheyennes and Arapahoes are dog eaters, yet the dog feast held by the Sacs and Fox tribes are a part of a religious ceremony which the tribes followed when they owned the country all around Lake Michigan and were the lords of the forests wherever they roamed.

By white men the secret order among the Sacs and Fox Indians, which annually celebrates with a dog feast, is known as the "otter skin" order, the name being adopted from the use of otter skins during the celebration of the order's various ceremonies. They hold in great reverence the several hundred other skins possessed by the tribe and say they have been handed down during many generations.

DIVINING RODS ARE SUCCESS.

French Peasants Find Subterranean Water in Odd Way.

The results of the first series of experiments with the divining rod before the congress of experimental psychology at Paris recently are remarkable. The first tests were devoted to examining the diviners' claims to be able to detect underground cavities.

Four wielders of the mysterious rod were taken to a disused quarry in Vincennes wood and were invited to point out the subterranean galleries and shafts and to show their direction.

A peasant from south France was the first diviner. He carried a long, supple hazel wand with a forked end, which he kept near the ground, and walked forward, his wand trembling slightly. The fork suddenly twitched. The peasant announced that the cavity begins "here," then indicated the limits of the cavity, adding "it is fifty feet deep and quite dry." These details were found to be correct.

RADIUM AS ELIXIR OF LIFE.

Berlin Doctor Asserts That It Restores Hardened Arteries.

The claim that radium can restore the hardened arteries of middle aged persons to a healthy condition and so prolong life was made by Dr. Saubermann of Berlin in a lecture in London before the Roentgen society recently.

If the theory is correct it will be possible for a few dollars to buy a radium apparatus which will manufacture an elixir of youth.

The apparatus consists of an earthenware receptacle containing a minute amount of radium, which is placed at the bottom of a glass bottle. The bottle is filled with water. In the course of time the water becomes charged with radium emanations.

REPORTS HABITS OF HEAD HUNTERS

Philippine Official Writes Hideous Facts.

METHODS OF THE IFUGAOS.

Six Out of Seven Tribes Practice Decapitation of Enemies—Use Heads as Ornaments in Houses—Families Lose Respect For Victims—Weird Burial Rites Are Observed.

Writing in the Geographic Magazine, Dean C. Worcester, formerly of the University of Michigan, now secretary of the interior of the Philippine Islands, gives some interesting particulars concerning the head hunters of the island of Luzon. Six of the seven of the tribes found in the northern part of the island have been addicted to head hunting. Take the Ifugaos, for example.

"When I first entered their territory in 1903," writes Mr. Worcester, "many of their houses were ornamented with fresh human skulls, and I saw various victims of head hunting raids."

"When an Ifugao war party returns with a head it executes a ceremonial march, or dance—one hardly knows which to call it—which defies successful description. The men have their split rattan raincoats on their backs. On the insides of these raincoats are pockets, which form convenient receptacles for gory trophies. The warriors carry beautifully fashioned and deadly steel headed lances and serviceable, plain board shields, strengthened by rattan lashings to prevent splitting. Zigzag white marks are painted on the shields, indicating a ceremonial occasion.

Creeping on Victim.

"The warriors do not approach standing, but creep along the ground and in this position execute a sort of lock-step, beating upon their shields with billets of wood and bending in perfect unison far to the right and then far to the left. Some of the men make threatening motions with their lances. It is impossible for me to describe the weird effect produced, but I hope yet to be able to use a moving picture camera on a file of men engaging in this strange ceremonial, which they will doubtless soon forget, as head hunting has now practically ceased among them."

"When the dancing ground is reached the head is impaled upon a short stake and the warriors circle around it in the characteristic war dance of this tribe. Some of them take off their ornaments and hang them on the head, at the same time jeering at it as if it were capable of hearing and understanding them. Dancing and feasting may last for days.

Skulls as Ornaments.

"Ultimately the skull, which has not been mutilated in any way, is boiled and thoroughly cleaned. The lower jaw is fastened in place with rattan and the trophy is taken home by the man who won it. It serves him as a household ornament. It may be placed with other skulls on a board shelf beside the door of his house; it may find a resting place within, over the fireplace; it may be placed outside at one corner, with the skulls of carabao and pigs which have been eaten at feasts."

"I have seen a house with a tasteful ornament frieze of alternating carabao skulls and human skulls extending around it at the height of the door. I have seen others with great open work baskets of skulls under the eaves."

No Reverence For Victim.

"A man who loses his head is considered to have treated his family and friends somewhat shabbily. He is not buried as an ordinary person would be, but is carried to a resting place on some hillside far from his native village. A tunnel is excavated in the earth, his body is carried into it and placed in a sitting position, and the tunnel is then filled. A lance is thrust into the ground over the grave to show that he was killed in war, and an antio image rudely fashioned out of grass may be left to watch over his last resting place."

SIMPLIFIED SPELLING TAUT.

Filadelfia Publik Skuls Wil Adopt Sism.

Simplified spelling will be taught in the public schools of Philadelphia. Superintendent of Schools Brumbaugh says that the system will be gradually introduced to avoid confusion.

"Simplified spelling to be taut in our skuls" is the slogan which will be carried by the various members of the board of education. Brumbaugh is confident that the spelling of today will be shaken from young pupils' heads. "If we spell as we pronounce," he said, "it will mean less affectation."

Chinese Have New Alphabet.

Chinese soldiers have formulated a new alphabet, after a study of all the alphabets of the world, which will supersede, it is said, the cumbersome ideograms which were the pride of the ancient Chinese as well as the puzzle of the modern world. Five vowels have been taken from the Latin, four from the Greek, four from the Russian, one from the Chinese and two are elongated signs, and seven are reversed ideograms. Fourteen consonants are Latin, three Russian and two Greek.

GETTING GRAY? USE SAGE TEA TO RESTORE NATURAL COLOR OF HAIR.

Says Sage and Sulphur Darkens Hair Beautifully and Ends Dandruff.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair, says a well-known local pharmacist. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful and even today this simple preparation has no equal. Millions of women and men too, who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive use only Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Nowadays we are not bothered with the task of gathering the sage leaves and the mussy mixing at home. Simply ask at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of the ready to use preparation, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." Customers like this best because it darkens so naturally; so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. Besides, it contains ingredients which take off dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. No, it isn't a dye or even like it. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two it is restored to its natural color.

What delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that besides beautifully darkening the hair they say it brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

Make the Man Who Sells You a Buggy Show You Why

you should buy the one he wants to sell you. Don't buy it just because he tells you it is made of second growth hickory and has a plugless yellow poplar body and full wrought gear. It may have, but if it has he can show you, so you will know beyond any doubt that it is made of the material he represents it to be made of and if he won't show you, you are justified in doubting his word, because any buggy built of this kind of material can be demonstrated in a way that will leave no doubt in your mind as to workmanship and material if it is built by men who know how to build buggies. If you are going to buy a buggy, take the time to visit our sample floor and let us show you how to find out what is beneath the paint on a buggy. We carry a complete line of buggies of all styles and if you are in the market a little time spent in our store will put you in a position to make a wise selection, whether you buy your buggy here or elsewhere. Get what you pay for when you buy your next buggy. There is a way to tell and we will show you how. Remember we sell the buggies that stay on the road longest and we guarantee every vehicle to be just as we represent it to you.

RUSHVILLE, INDIANA

EDDIE COOK WILL CAPTAIN TEAM

Star of Last Year's Team will Again be Seen in Rushville Uniform, Playing Second Base.

PLANS TO OPEN BY MAY 1

"Chick" Avery Will Play Here Despite Reports to Contrary—Maibaugh Won't be Back.

Frank Maibaugh of Liberty, who managed the Rushville baseball team last year, was here yesterday looking over the situation. It is almost certain that he will not be connected with the team this year and John Walker, a former partner in business with Maibaugh, is going ahead with the organization of the team.

Walker will be assisted in the organization of the team by Eddie Cook of Indianapolis, who will again play second base. All reports that Cook will not play with the local team are unfounded and the fans here will welcome the news that he will again be with the Rushville team. Cook led the team last year in batting with an average of .423. Cook will captain the team and in this capacity should prove an able general. He is expected here Saturday for a conference with Walker and plans for the season will be outlined.

"Long" John Avery will also report to the locals despite reports from Elwood that he would play with that team in the Indiana State league. "Chick" by his work in the box here last year demonstrated that the local management could not afford to overlook him this year. Avery has a record of winning 15 games and losing 2. Seven of his games were shut outs and one was a no-hit affair. Avery batted .277, which is not so bad for a pitcher.

Captain Cook has a "catcher" in view and believes he will make good. The short stop and third base positions are to be filled. Carter who played short last year has cast his lot with Flora. Harry Wilson of Bentonville will be given a try out at third and "Stubble" Coombs will be offered a chance to hold down the first base job. Several men for the short stop position are in view. Charles Coombs and Halterman are the only certainties for the outfield. Halterman will also be used in the box. Last year Halterman batted .340 and the team would be weakened with his loss. The management has several players desiring a tryout and the team on paper looks to be as strong as last year's.

The ball park which was damaged by the recent flood will be repaired and put in condition as soon as weather conditions permit. It is hoped to have the grounds ready for a practice game not later than two weeks from now and the season will probably open the first Sunday in May. The opposing team for the opener has not been selected. Connersville and Shelbyville have both made offers for the opening game and either one of these two teams would be a drawing card.

TO ATTEND D. A. R. CONGRESS

Mrs. Sarah Guffin and Miss Alice Norris Are Delegates.

Mrs. Sarah Guffin and Miss Alice Norris will leave tomorrow night for Washington, D. The local delegates will go on a special car from Richmond with the Indiana delegation. A number of society events have been arranged for the D. A. R. during their stay in Washington and they will be the guests of President Wilson one afternoon. One of the usual features is the contest for the election of officers.

STARVE THE FLY IS NEW SLOGAN

National Campaign Has Special Significance For the Flooded Districts, Says Chairman.

DISEASE CARRYING DISGRACE

Spring is Best Time to Starve Fly. Their Presence is Sign of Filth.

"Starve the fly."

This is the slogan that Edward Hatch, Jr., chairman of the national fly extermination committee of the American Civic association, and grand marshal of the national campaign against the house fly, now re-named the "typhoid fly," has announced.

"And that especially applies to you people who have just gone through floods that have scattered disease germs," he added. "The flies if they get past you, will scatter these germs over a wide area. Starve the fly and thus prevent the spreading of disease and epidemics."

"That 'swat the fly' slogan did its work, but it did not exterminate the fly. It got the country awake to the dangers of the fly, and made it realize that the fly can be exterminated. Now we are after the fly. The time is going to come when you will have to go as far, at least in respectable places, to see a fly as to find a bed-bug!"

"You know the thing that did the business with the bedbug and with lice and many other pests, was the disgrace that became associated with them. They came to be accepted as prima facie evidence that personal habits were not clean—that that was something radically wrong about the house or hotel—and no one would stand for the disgrace. When this came to pass these pests were wiped out in a hurry."

"Now the same thing is going to wipe out the fly. It is coming to be known as a fact that flies only breed in filth; that a fly will not stay around a clean place; that flies know their friends as well as the places where they can breed and get lots of filth to eat."

"A fly is one of the most wonderful insects that the world has and among its wonders is the faculty of picking out friends. You can be pretty certain that when you see a person on whom the flies light and on whom they cling, that person's real home condition or surroundings are that the fly wants to go home with him or her. Clothes and people quickly absorb and carry the cleanliness or carelessness of environment."

"Likewise, when you find a house well patronized by flies you can be certain that no matter how favorable the parlor itself, or possibly the entire house, may look there is something wrong in that immediate property or the vicinity. It may be the garbage can or the barn, or some bad condition in the neighborhood and, in the matter of flies, the person who would be rid of them not only has to deal with his immediate household, but also see to it that the neighborhood does its share. He or she must have the community or civic spirit."

"But remember this: Flies only breed in, and feed on, filth. Remove the filth and you remove the flies. 'No filth, no flies' is another good and true slogan. Tolerant of a fly in any household is not only a danger to the health of that household—for the fly may be direct from typhoid or other disease deposits, with thousands of disease germs to deposit on your food—but it is a severe indictment and reflection on the members of the family—proof of a low order of general intelligence and civic spirit. Tolerant of flies by any city or town is likewise an indictment of like character against that city or town."

"Whenever we get this thing into the minds of people the fly is doomed. It is easy to get rid of him when man gets ready to do it. He is getting ready fast."

Costs More---Worth It

It takes about 25000 wheat kernels to make one loaf of bread. If there are only 10 bits of dirt on each kernel there will be 250,000 bits of dirt in the loaf of bread unless the dirt is TAKEN OUT IN THE MILL. The guaranteed flour, CLARK'S PURITY goes through more washing, cleaning, scouring and purifying processes than any other flour.
